CHRISTMAS COLLECTION

STUNNING
DESIGNER STYLE

Hello and welcome...

...to the December issue of Knitting & Crochet.

It's wintertime! Please forgive me if I sound a little over-excited, because for a Knitting Editor it really is one of the most creative periods of the year. I do hope you'll love what we have for you this issue. Perhaps you'll be inspired to create our brightly coloured Nordic-inspired knits for children, or a festive make for your home from our seasonal collection of contemporary designs. Plus, we've a stunning brocade-patterned top from Designer of the Month, Marie Wallin, a reworked cable sweater for men from our archives, and all your favourite regular features.

Some of you will know that my path to a career in knitting began as a Saturday girl in a wool shop, at a time when there was at least one haberdashery and wool shop on every high street. Although the yarns were more generic – 4ply, DK, Aran and possibly a Chunky – and the colour ranges quite small, the passion and enthusiasm of the customers who came in to buy their wool was an inspiration. Shopping trends have changed, sadly forcing many of the shops to close, but thankfully the eagerness a knitter or crocheter has for picking up their needles or hooks remains the same. Now we can buy a vast range of yarns online, in every colour imaginable. Why not check out our Woman's Weekly online shop – visit shop.womansweekly.com – where you can buy yarns to make our fabulous designs, plus books, Woman's Weekly patterns you may have missed and much, much more! And we've not forgotten the social connection once enjoyed in the wool shops either: meet with us on Facebook, Pinterest or Ravelry and share what you've made. We love to hear from you, and if you've any knitting or crochet queries, please don't hesitate to ask!

See you next month!

Quite A Challenge

Whether you're a seasoned Woman's Weekly reader or picking up our fabulous new Knitting & Crochet magazine for the first time, we're aware that, while of course you'll love to knit and/or crochet, you'll also have different skills at different levels. So we've signposted each project in the magazine with a new rating, from Easy Peasy to Quite A Challenge, as a guide to help you decide if the pattern suits your ability. However, we pride ourselves on our clear instructions, so you can try something that's more challenging or simply enjoy your skill.

New Romantic

A traditional brocade motif is brought bang up to date with metallic yarn in Marie Wallin's beautiful short-sleeved top

Knitted history

Born in Bolton, Marie Wallin studied textile and knitwear design at college. After graduation, she set up her own knitwear label that sold in the US and Japan and in small outlets in the UK. Although her label was successful, Marie decided to return to commercial design, working for a knitwear manufacturer in Leicestershire – her designs became part of collections for high-street retailers such as Next, BHS, Burton and Debenhams.

In 2005, Marie joined the Rowan design team as Head Designer. As part of this role she's heavily involved with the development of yarn ranges and the selection of new colours each season. She's also a visiting lecturer at Nottingham Trent University and works with the Royal College of Art on design projects. In her spare time she runs workshops and self-publishes books of her own patterns.

Marie lives in a Leicestershire village with her husband Mark and their two German shorthaired pointer dogs, Norah and Nelly.

Marie's commercial experience – working with high-street retailers – brings a real wearability to her hand-knit designs

Work other side in same way and pull out the card. Place one seamed edge in the centre at top of head, with loose end at front and sew in position. Take the loose strands round head, bringing other seamed edge to centre of head with loose end at front, overlapping the first edge slightly and sew in position. Secure the loose ends at front in position for fringe. Lift the hair away from head and spread fabric glue around back and sides of head about halfway down. Beginning at centre back, carefully place folded strands back on head, making sure there are no gaps between strands and leave to dry.

To fit a polystyrene wreath measuring approx 35cm/13¾in diameter.

Materials

1 x 100g (295m) ball of Stylecraft Special DK (100% acrylic) in each of White (1001) Matador (1010), Meadow (1065), Lime (1712) and Pomegranate (1083). A 35cm polystyrene wreath; 1m x 50cm muslin fabric; 1m x 2cm-wide red ribbon; sharp scissors; a strip of card approx 6 x 20cm; sewing needle and thread; a wool needle; UHU glue (optional).

You can buy this yarn online at shop.womansweekly.com or call 0800 024 1212.

Note

Yarn amounts are based on average requirements and are therefore approximate.

Pompoms

Wind yarn around the strip of cardboard about 110 times, or more for large pompom and cut ends. Push this bunch of yarn off the card, keeping it tidy and together.

Tie a separate, long double length of yarn lightly around the middle of the bunch and repeat, so it's nice and tight. Holding the tie carefully cut ends to shape but do not cut tie. The pompom will look a bit dishevelled, so give it a good all-over trim to even it out to desired size.

Make 16 pompoms approximately 5cm diameter, in each of the 5 shades.

Wreath

To cover wreath, using polystyrene wreath as template, fold fabric in half and allowing 1.5cm for seam, cut shape to match wreath. With right sides together, join inside edge seam. Press to flatten seam, then with right side facing, wrap fabric around wreath and join outside edge seam. Thread loose ends of yarn from pompoms through wool needle and sew securely to cover, packing pompoms tightly together and adding a little glue to hold in place if required. Pass ribbon through hole at centre of wreath, bringing ends out to tie into a bow at outer edge. Using spare length of yarn, make a twisted cord of approximately 10cm long. Knot ends together and sew to back of wreath for hanging loop.

Knitting Class

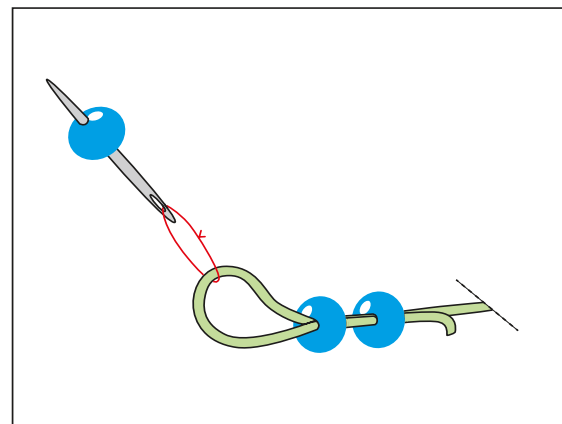

Only a few beads are used in these designs, but here is an explanation of exactly how to knit with them. Another decorative effect explained here is a picot cast-off

Beading

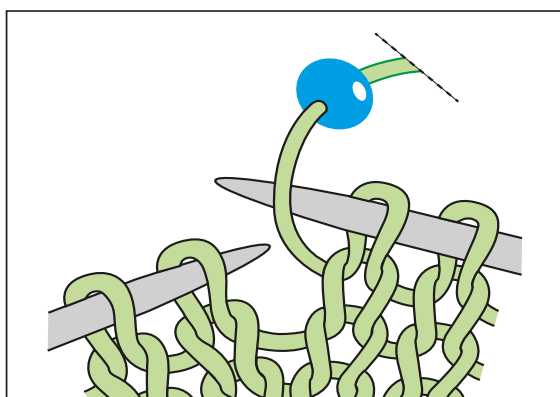

The important thing to remember about this technique is that the beads must be threaded on to the yarn before starting to knit.

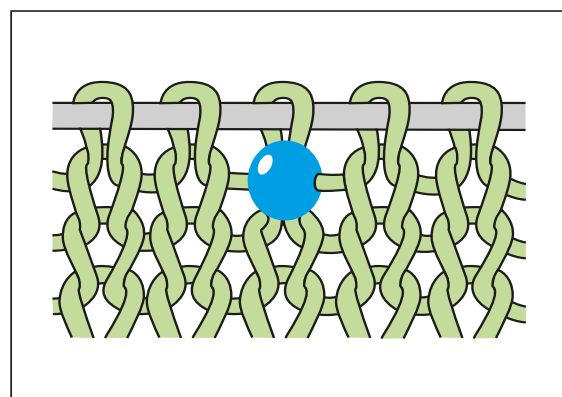

1 The knitting yarn needs to sit snugly in the bead, so it will probably be too thick to pass through the bead doubled up in the eye of a knitter's sewing needle. In this case make a loop of sewing thread in a sewing needle and take the end of the yarn through the loop.

2 Take the sewing needle through each bead then slide the bead over the thread and along the doubled knitting yarn until the estimated number of beads sit on the single yarn from the ball.

3 Knit to the stitch where the bead is to be placed, bring the yarn to the front of the work and slide the bead along the yarn and close to the right-hand needle. Here it is shown with stocking stitch for clarity.

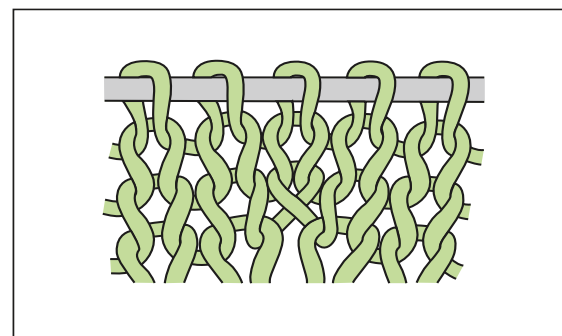

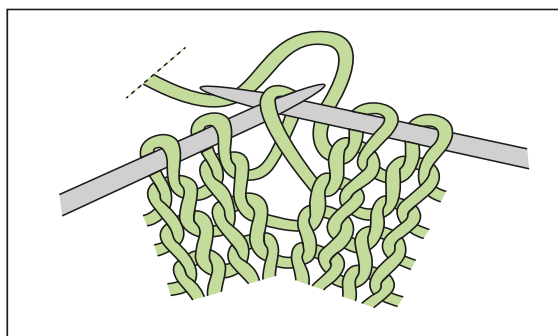

4 Slip the 'bead' stitch purlwise then take the yarn to the back, so that the bead is sitting close to the work in front of the slipped stitch.

Diagrams: Winnie Ong

Knitting in the back of the loop

Instead of inserting the right-hand needle in the front strand of a stitch to knit it in the usual way, it can be inserted in the back strand to produce a tighter twisted stitch.

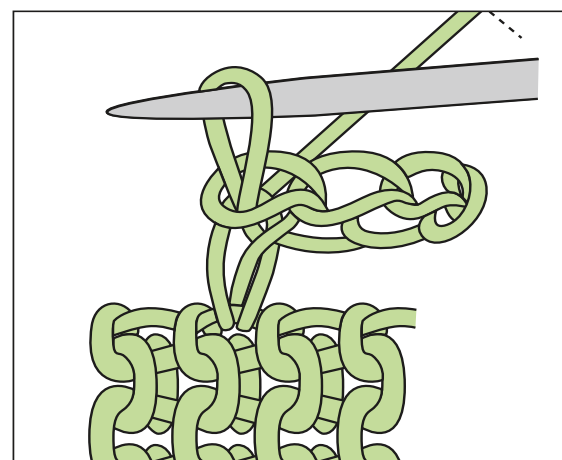

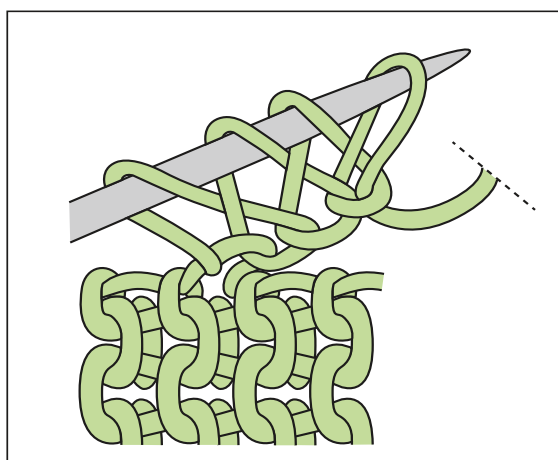

1 One way to make a neat increase is to work a yarn over on one row (shown in stocking stitch for clarity).

2 On the next row, knit this new stitch through the back of the loop to close up the hole that would be made if you knitted the stitch in the usual way.

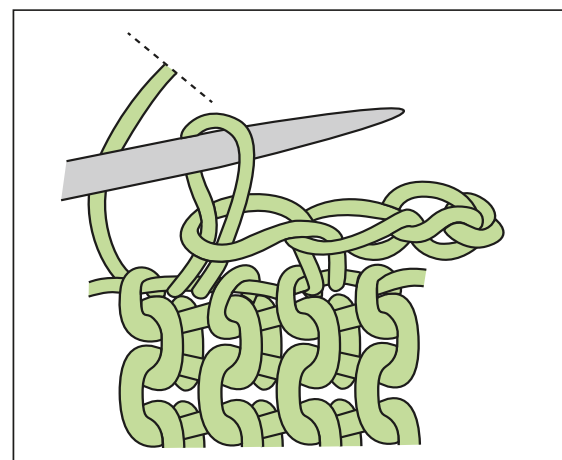

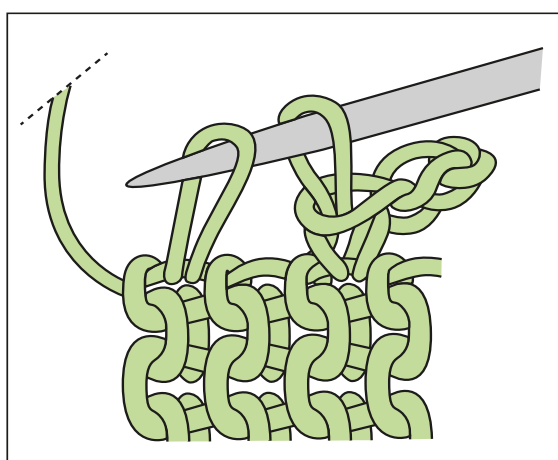

Picot cast-off

Increasing a few stitches before casting off these and an additional stitch or two makes a very decorative edge. It's shown here worked along garter stitch edge. This is the method used to edge the winter sun on page 44.

1 Pick up st and slip this stitch on to the left-hand needle and cast on 3 stitches.

2 Cast off the 3 stitches just made.

3 Miss one garter stitch ridge, pick up and knit one stitch.

4 Slip the stitch already on the needle over this stitch, then transfer the new stitch to the left-hand needle.

Crochet Class

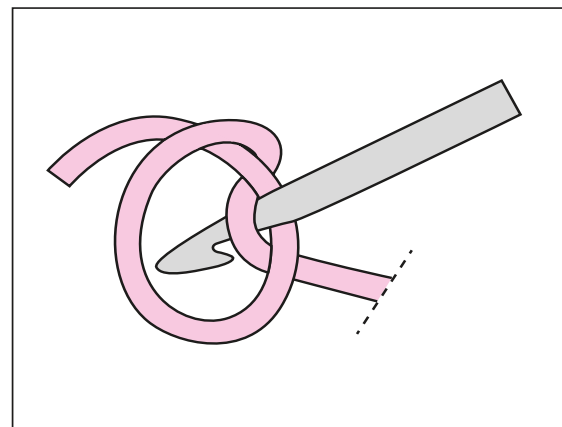

Extend your skills by learning this method of working beads into your crochet

Slip ring

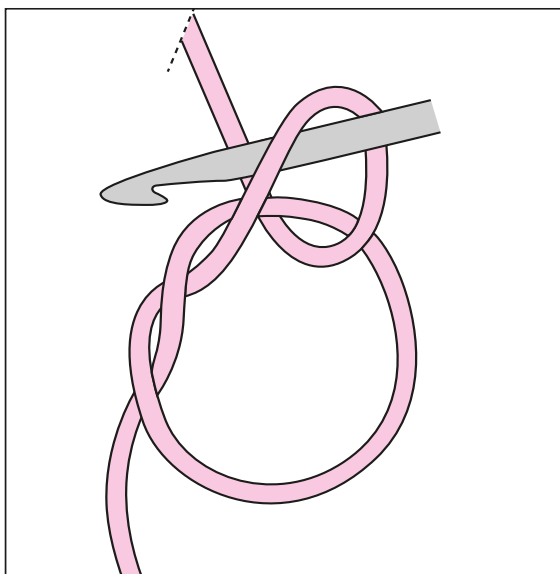

Unlike a chain ring, a slip ring can be pulled tight after the stitches have been worked so that it makes a firm, small centre.

1 As for a slip knot, make a ring with the working end of the yarn crossing above the free end.

2 Dip the hook into the ring, catch the working end of the yarn and pull it through the ring to the front.

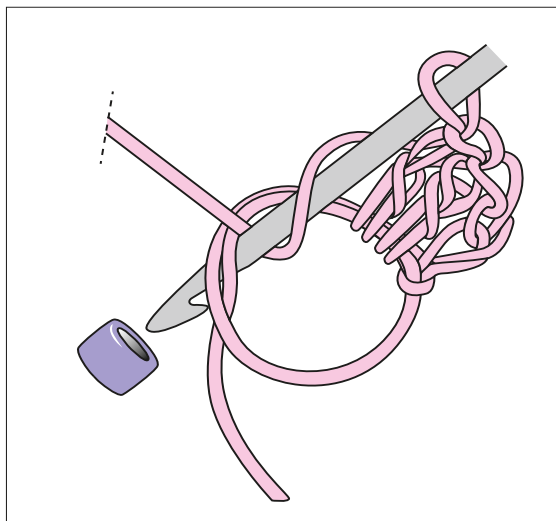

3 Instead of pulling the yarn ends to make a knot, hold the ring flat between first finger and thumb of the left hand. The loop on the hook forms the base of the first stitch, which in this case will be three chain to count as the first treble.

4 Leaving the tail end free, make the required number of stitches around the two strands that form the top of the ring. Pull the free end to close up the ring and then join the first and last stitches to complete the round.

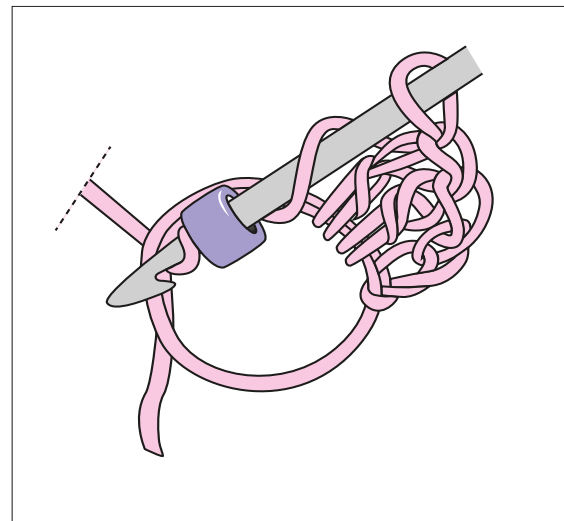

Diagrams: Winnie Ong

Beading

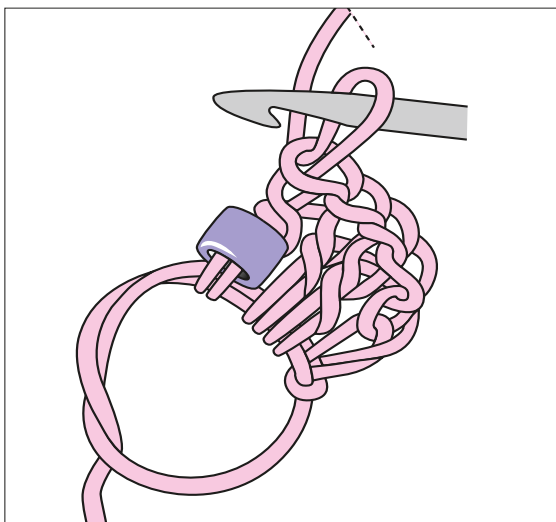

This method means that the beads aren't strung beforehand. However, they must be beads with a large enough hole to take the crochet hook. The type called a pony bead is used here.

1 For these designs make a slip ring and work three chain and two trebles into it. Yarn round hook, insert it in the ring then in the bead.

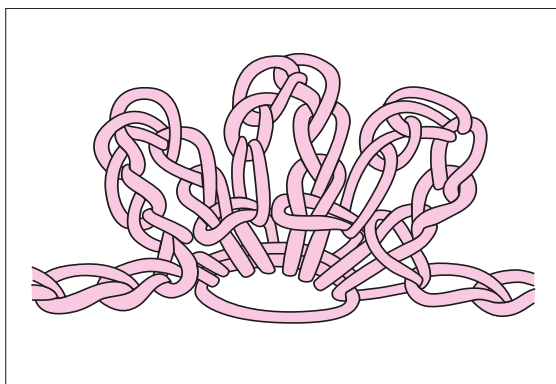

2 Yarn round hook again and pull it through the bead, at the same time pulling the bead through to the front of the ring.

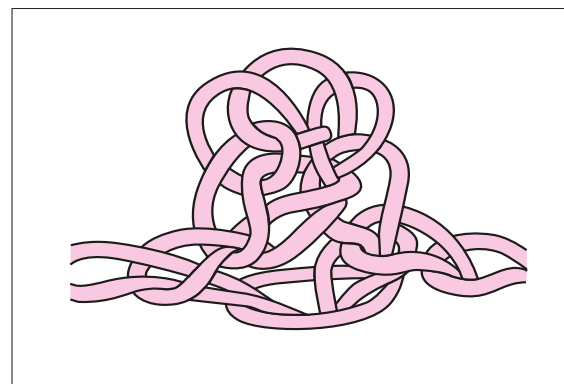

3 [Yarn round hook and pull it through the next 2 loops on the hook] twice to make a treble, with the bead at the base of the stitch.

Picot

There are several ways to make a picot (a decorative pip, usually on an edge).

1 A small chain loop anchored with a slip stitch is one method, as the triple picot on the snowflake.

2 A few chain with a double crochet worked in the first chain is a method that produces a firm little picot.

A white crocheted snowflake ornament is the central focus, hanging from a dark, thin branch. The snowflake has a complex, multi-lobed design with a textured, knitted appearance. In the center of the snowflake, there are several small, clear, faceted beads. The background is a soft-focus image of a branch with white blossoms, creating a wintry atmosphere. At the top, a pink banner with a scalloped edge contains the text 'Crochet Project'. At the bottom, the title 'Let It Snow' is written in a large, white, serif font. Below the title, a short paragraph describes the project. The entire page is framed by a light blue grid pattern at the top and a dashed vertical line on the left side.

Let It Snow

There's no more decorative symbol of winter than a snowflake. Ours is surprisingly simple to make, with or without the beads in the centre

Tina's Tips & Tricks

Get the little things right and your knitting will be beautiful

We want your knitting to be the best it can possibly be. So it's a good job we have Tina. A true knitting professional, Tina's been Technical Knitting Editor at Woman's Weekly for 15 years. And now she's here to help you! Every month, Tina answers the most common questions you've sent in and resolves some of the issues we face as knitters. Together, we'll make your knitting beautiful!

Carrying on stripes

Q When I'm knitting stripes, should I break the yarn off at the end of each stripe, or should I carry it along the side to be picked up later?

A I've always found it best when knitting even-numbered rows of stripes to carry the yarn along the edge. And I make sure to twist the carried colour with the working colour frequently to help maintain the tension. By doing this, you won't have to sew all those ends in later and you save yarn, too. But if your stripes are worked over an odd number of rows, you might consider using double-pointed or circular needles. That way, you can start the row from the end where the yarn is left without having to turn the work around or break off the yarn at all. Just be careful with this method when it comes to shaping.

Joining shoulders

Q I loved the denim jacket in your September issue, but got stuck when it came to joining the shoulders. How do I do this?

A The jacket's designer used a technique where the front and back shoulder stitches are cast off together on the right side.

For the right shoulder you work along the right side of the back, with the right front behind the back and with the wrong sides of both pieces together. Make sure the points of your spare needles are at the outside edge, and insert the right needle in the first stitch on the back. Then, in the first stitch on the front, place the yarn round the point of the needle and pull it through both stitches on the spare needles. You should then drop these stitches off the spare needle.

Work in the next stitch on the back and front in the same way. Then, pass the second stitch over the first. Carry on until all the specified number of stitches is cast off. There should be some stitches remaining on the right front for the jacket's collar. The centre back stitches are also left for the collar. As are the first-quoted number of stitches on the left front (the same as the number of stitches left for the collar on the right front). So cast off the remaining left back and front stitches together in the same way as you did on the right.

How to judge

Q I've been asked to be a judicator for a knitting competition. What should I take into account when judging the entries and picking a winner?

A I'd split the entries into categories. Items for babies, kids, adults, accessories, homeware, toys. Then, select three of the best items in each category, and from that three, a winner and runner-up. For an overall winner, choose one from the category winners.

I'd be judging each entry on how well it's made; the skills and technique used; the item's suitability for purpose, and the choice of yarn, colour and pattern. Good luck!

Dropped stitches

Q I've never mastered the art of picking up dropped stitches. Can you tell me how to pick them up so I don't have to unravel every time?

A It's easier to work in stocking stitch. Use a crochet hook about the same size as your knitting needle. With the right side facing you, insert the hook into the dropped stitch. Catch the horizontal bar above the stitch and pull it through, making sure the new stitch is the same tension as your other stitches. Continue like this until you reach the working row. Do the same but on the wrong side if you drop a stitch while working in reverse stocking stitch.

It's more tricky picking up a dropped stitch if you're working a textured pattern. Calculation might be needed to work out which row the dropped stitch is on and what stitch should be worked next. Once you've fathomed that, work into the dropped stitch from the front for knit-stitch and from the back for purl-stitches along the horizontal bars.

We Made These!

The best part about finishing a project is getting to show it off. So why not share yours with us?

Snuggly student

I'll never forget the day my granddaughter got accepted by St Andrew's University. I was thrilled. Brains as well as beauty, that girl. So I knitted this throw for her to take. I saw the pattern in Woman's Weekly back in January this year, and it'll be just the thing to keep her warm on those long, cold, wintry nights up there in Fife. And I hope that every time she snuggles up with it, she remembers how proud I am of her and how very, very much I love her.

Ina Strachan, Scotland

Mice à la mode

You might recognise this pair of ritzy rodents – they appeared in Woman's Weekly at the end of May this year. As soon as I saw them, I loved them. And I knew my granddaughter Emily would love them, too. But there was a small problem: her birthday was only a week later. Morning, noon and night I knitted. It was all hands on deck for me until I finished them just in time for Emily's big day. She was delighted with the trendy twosome. They're dressed up very nicely indeed!

Pauline Hedges, East Sussex

Classy carriers

Wednesday is my favourite day, because that's when I get my Woman's Weekly. The first thing I turn to every week is the craft section. A few weeks ago, there was a pattern for a crocheted basket. As soon as I saw it, I had a brainwave. I'd use crochet the basket, but instead of yarn, I'd use old carrier bags I had in the cupboard. I cut them into strips, took out my crochet hook and hey presto! A stylish but hard-wearing flower pot.

Isabel Grant, Fife

Beddy-byes blanket

Every baby needs a blanket to keep their tiny fingers and toes warm when it's beddy-byes time. That's why I decided to knit this beautiful one for my friend's baby when she told me she was expecting. I hope it'll keep her little buttercup snug as a bug in a rug. What with the blanket's size, its delicate pattern and edging, this was a challenging project for me. I'm delighted with the end result.

Pauline Wickes, Kent
